Republic On Rocks and Fast Breaking Up, General View

Disavowal of Stresemann Cabinet Precipitates New Crisis in Germany With Anarchy In Its Ascendancy—Republic Is In Direst Straits.

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Nov. 24.—The downfall of the Stresemann government is viewed here as an event of the utmost significance, possibly involving developments destined to have a deep and lasting effect on all Europe. The fact that some of the morning newspapers first place to display their Berlin dispatches on the Reichstag's rejection of the chancellor and the situation in Germany generally, indicates that the crisis is regarded as serious.

"The condition of Germany today is infinitely worse than it has been at any moment since Germany became an empire," the Times says. "The Reichstag, in the present circumstances, is a mere form and condition and through it a mere anarchy yesterday recorded its verdict. What will happen now is almost an insurmountable problem for Stresemann, Ebert and their associates and it is a serious problem for the world."

Germany is breaking up. This fact must be realized now as the most important event in contemporary Europe, with the great tribulation of Russia in the background."

The Times also calls attention to the loss of the Ruhr, which it was torn from the Reich and "as far as perceptible, will remain separated from Germany for at least a generation."

"France has had her way," asserts the writer. "Her curiosity regarding the world's future is nearing its goal. A new political and economic (Continued on Page Three.)"

BARON AND WIFE END THEIR LIVES ON SON'S GRAVE

(By The Associated Press.)
BERRY AU BAC, France, Nov. 24.—Baron and Baroness Emmanuel de Montigny shot themselves dead yesterday on the grave of their aviator son, Pierre, who was killed here in an air fight in 1918.

The couple attended, as was their custom, the anniversary mass in the parish church for the repose of their son's soul. They told the deputy mayor, with whom they were to lunch, that they were going to visit the grave and when they failed to arrive at his home at the designated hour, he went in search for them. Baron and Baroness were found in the head of each and beside each body lay a small pistol.

Pinned to the Baron's hat was a letter to the deputy mayor saying he and his wife had decided to die.

England's Relations With France Never Worse Says George

(By The Associated Press.)
GLASGOW, Nov. 24.—Former Prime Minister Lloyd George declared in a broadcast speech here today that Great Britain's relations with France were never worse.

"I doubt whether in living memory they have been quite so bad as now," he said.

Referring to the European development of the last year, he said: "Owing to what has happened in the last year the restoration of normal trade conditions throughout the vast population of central Europe probably has been postponed. For a number of months but a matter of years."

Stowaway Causes Explosion On Ship Which Is Burned

(By The Associated Press.)
MARSEILLES, France, Nov. 24.—A stowaway is said to have caused an explosion aboard the British steamer Overturn just after the vessel left here for New York yesterday with a cargo of petrol, cotton and benzine. Tugs from this port towed the blazing steamer into the roadway where she burned to the water's edge. The captain and four of the crew are known to have lost their lives but it is feared that the flames claimed more victims as the number of stowaways in the Overturn has not been ascertained. One of them, a maltese, escaped the flames and was arrested on suspicion of having caused the fire.

Scores Are Injured By Explosion Which Wreck 2 Consulates

Explosions Wreck Italian and Spanish Consulates and Badly Damages in Wide Radius—Many Windows Shattered—People Hurlled From Beds

(By The Associated Press.)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Two bomb explosions in foreign consulates in the downtown district today injured scores of persons damaged many houses and threw the southern section of the city into wild excitement. No one was seriously hurt so far as the police could learn.

The first explosion occurred at the Spanish consulate, 701 Pine street, about one o'clock this morning, and the second at the Sons of Italy Bank, Broad and Tasker streets, an hour later. The Italian consulate is located in the bank building and the bomb was placed on the door leading to the consular offices.

Both blasts shattered window panes and shook houses in a wide radius. The force of the explosion at the Spanish consulate was so great that many persons were hurled from their beds, some being cut and bruised by flying glass. The bomb concealed in a wooden box, was found on the doorstep by Emilio De Motta, the consul, when he returned from the theatre.

He placed it inside the hallway out after retiring, he told the police he had concluded that a passerby had left the box on the doorstep temporarily and thought it best to leave it without a thought of the deadly bomb concealed within, he got out of bed and replaced the box on the doorstep.

A few minutes after returning to his room, the explosion occurred, tearing out the entire front of the building and wrecking the consul's room on the second floor. Mr. De Motta was badly shaken up.

The Sons-of-Italy Bank building was wrecked by the second explosion and a number of houses in the neighborhood were damaged. The fact that the Italian consulate was located in the building led the police to believe that the same persons were responsible for placing both bombs.

Luigi Siliti, the Italian consul, was not in the city but Vice Consul Guido Di Venezia, who appeared at the scene shortly after the explosion, said he had no idea why the place was bombed or by whom it was done.

Like the Spanish consul, he said neither he nor the Italian consul had any enemies so far as he knew.

Director of Public Safety Cortesou assumed personal charge of the situation and ordered guards placed around all consulates in the city. He also sent out a general call ordering detectives to guard the home of Mayor Moore, the various judges and other prominent city officials.

He said he had no definite information regarding the identity of the person or persons responsible for the bombings, but declared it was his belief that they were members of "radical organizations" which have been unusually active here recently.

Membership Clause Defeated by House After Much Debate

Proponents Declare Action Enact Anti-Ku Klux Klan Legislation With "Teeth"—Session Was Bitter One With Many Verbal Clashes.

(By The Associated Press.)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 24.—The arraignment of J. C. Walton, deposited governor, indicted yesterday, was set today for Nov. 28 before Judge George W. Clark, in state district court.

Dr. E. A. Davenport, state health commissioner and T. P. Edwards, the former governor's personal chauffeur, indicted with him, will enter pleas at the same time. All have made bond for appearance.

(By The Associated Press.)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 24.—Ku Klux Klan supporters emerged victorious in their first test of strength in the state Senate when the upper house voted late yesterday to strike out of the proposed anti-Ku Klux Klan measure under consideration a section which would have compelled secret organizations in Oklahoma to file their membership lists for public inspection.

Proponents of the section declared that by its passage the Senate would fail to enact anti-Ku Klux Klan legislation with "teeth" in it, although they took some consolation in the passage of a provision requiring officers of secret organizations to register their names with county authorities.

The action on the membership clauses came at the end of a day filled with dramatic debate in which members of the both factions came out openly in support of their convictions precipitating verbal clashes and quarrels in the Senate. During the present extraordinary session, members of the Klan denounced it as being founded upon racial hatred and religious intolerance and described it as a "rival of the organization of the Ku Klux Klan," which was "strongly condemned. Its friends defended it as a righteous organization, upholding law and order in the midst of crime."

Senator Harry Glasser, of Enid, led the attack on the Klan. He assailed the organization for its operations under the mask and declared in an impassioned speech that "the question of religious intolerance has no place in Democracy."

"I wonder," he asked, "if the Jew and Catholic buddies of some of our own senators here, giving their full measure of devotion to the mud and blood of France, thought that five years their fathers and mothers would be called un-American? There were 24,000 of them who died for American principles and American Democracy. If they who saw active service questioned the Klan and Catholic buddies at their side, wondering if they were 100 per cent American? Was the heroic charge on Meuse Wood, which marked the turning point and which was carried out by Jews of the 77th division, recruited from New York east side an un-American act?"

More than half the Army commanded by Washington and Lafayette at the birth of the republic were Catholic, the Enid Protestant senator said. "The Klan is a part company with the Klan," he said, "when they try to regulate my conduct at a trial at which I am not represented and the identity of my accuser is hidden. That is contrary to all principles of justice. No man can be made a good citizen by being a good citizen. No man can be made a good citizen by being a good citizen. No man can be made a good citizen by being a good citizen."

Making his maiden speech at the session, Senator Jack Barker, of Reno, one of the oldest members of the upper House, declared the Klan "is not against the bootlegger or the drunk, it is against a certain religion."

Chief of the Klan defenders was Senator Wash Hudson, of Tulsa, majority floor leader, who declared the Klan is an agency for law and order and that much of its effectiveness is gained from the fact that it is a "You will never accomplish anything with this bill to make public the names of Klan members."

Former Governor Walton, impeached and removed by the present session of the legislature which is called to consider among other things, anti-Klan legislation, was indicted yesterday by a district grand jury on charges on which he was removed from office. Seven indictments were returned against the former executive. He had anticipated such action and immediately made bond of $6,750.

Definite recommendations for the awarding of several contracts in connection with the improvement of the city pumping station are expected to be made at the special meeting of the council to be held one day during the coming week. The bids were opened some weeks ago but it was necessary to study these closely to find out which one was the most satisfactory. The superintendent of works is now expected to ask the council to authorize the contract with some eight or ten concerns involved. It is expected that the cost will be slightly more than the $200,000 already provided through bonds for financing the improvement.

The suit instituted by Louise Tugman of Schofield, through her mother, against the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills for the recovery of $5,000 damages is to be called in the Chatham court on Monday next but probably will be continued until a day in December, as the suit will probably consume several days. The child's mother claims that permanent injuries were sustained by her daughter when as a baby she fell into a post hole dug near her home. The textile company has filed grounds of defense denying responsibility for the accident and alleging a measure of contributory negligence.

WOLVES HAVE BECOME SERIOUS MENACE IN PARTS OF MISSOURI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Wolves are more of a menace in many sections of Missouri this year than they have been within the last 40 years, and the state and federal governments have combined to exterminate them. So troublesome have they become to livestock and poultry that a special appropriation of $15,000 for fighting them was made by the state. The biological survey of the Department of Agriculture is co-operating and bearing part of the expense of wolf hunting. The survey has sent an inspector to select trappers, plan and direct their work, and to receive requests from counties needing assistance.

"Missouri wolf No. 1" was killed near Idaho, Phelps county, early in September, and since then wolves have been trapped in other counties.

Schoolboard Puts Hazard Remedy Up to the City Council

Reply to Fire Commissioners Will Express Willingness to Meet Some Requirements But Takes Issue With Wisdom of Other Suggestions—No Money Available Now to Comply With Commission's Demands.

The city schoolboard in a report on the physical condition of the city schools to be formally issued by the school board next Monday will make a reply to the report recently filed by the city fire commission to the council in which attention was called to the fire hazards in these public buildings and the additional alleged fact that previous ordered changes have not been complied with.

This report was presented as forecast, at a recent meeting of the city school board by a committee of three members of the board which canvassed the situation carefully bearing in mind the recommendations made by the fire commissioners. This report has been adopted by the entire schoolboard in principle but its publication as a formal expression of the board is being delayed until Monday in order to afford Superintendent W. C. Griggs the opportunity of making authorized changes in phraseology. When enquiries were made this morning at the superintendent's office it was stated that it would be impossible to give out the school board's report until Monday.

What the report will say however is virtually this: that the board is prepared to meet some of the requirements of the fire commissioners but that it cannot meet all of them—particularly the most drastic—since the school board has no funds to finance the undertakings. Issue will be taken with the fire commissioners on the wisdom of some of the suggested improvements and the thought will be expressed that the demands made on the school board at the present time are inappropriate and impossible of fulfillment because of financial limitations—unless the city council can see its way clear to make an appropriation covering the costs and thereby making possible meeting of the requirements promptly.

With the fire commissioners virtually demanding that certain changes be made and with the school board declining a willingness of the spirit but a weakness of the flesh the question of final authority presented itself today. City Attorney A. M. Allen said that it would remain entirely with the mayor whether the improvement called for should be insisted upon or if the unusual situation in regard to the schools here would warrant a maintenance of the attitude of the school board.

The Bee is in a position to state that the report will deal in detail with each city school taking up the objections made by the fire commissioners one by one and concluding by stating very clearly the attitude of the school board. The board points out that the suggested improvements in the schools are made nearly three months after the school sessions started, that the board made an appeal for funds to remedy these conditions and to improve the local school situation generally and that unless more money is made available to the school board, it will be impossible for

Red Cross Fixes Roll Call Date For December 6-9

The executive committee of the Danville chapter, American Red Cross, met yesterday afternoon and fixed the date for "Roll Call" and prepared a slate of officers to be voted upon at the annual meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The "Roll Call" will be held December 6-8-9, inclusive. The meeting was called yesterday primarily for the purpose of nominating officers. A committee was named to prepare the slate and as soon as this was prepared and asport made to the executive committee it was accepted. The organization is at present without a president. Rev. J. Calloway Robertson has been removed as president by the Virginia Methodist conference.

The "Roll Call" will be carried out along the usual lines. Committees will be maintained at the postoffice and at the banks on the days of the drive, while committees will work in the lobbies of the various churches of the city on Sunday morning, December 9, the last day of the campaign.

At the annual meeting to be held next Tuesday night many matters of importance, in addition to the election of officers and discussion of "Roll Call," will come up for debate and action. The officers of the organization are especially anxious for a full attendance and every member is urged to make particular effort to be present.

Mrs. Stanley Cunningham will be "Roll Call" chairman. She will have a corps of workers to assist her and efforts will be made to secure as many members to the organization in Danville as possible. The annual roll call provided for by the American Red Cross headquarters was set for the early part of this month but on account of the fact that the Community Chest drive was on, the drive was deferred. There are approximately a thousand members of the local organization.

TRIAL OF FORMER GOV. W. G. HARVEY IN CHARLESTON

(By The Associated Press) CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 23.—When the court of general sessions adjourned this afternoon at 3 o'clock, nearly all of the state's evidence in the case against former Governor Wilson G. Harvey, charged him with accepting deposits after he knew the Enterprise Bank, of which he was president and a director, was insolvent, had been presented to the state and will resume its presentation of evidence tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

When court adjourned today, twelve witnesses for the state had given their testimony, four of them being depositions who turned money over to the Enterprise Bank on the day it closed its doors, the men being George Pual, J. P. Magrath, Theodore Tecklenberg and M. C. Gresham. On cross examination one of these witnesses, George Pual, Harvey was in the bank when their deposits were received.

W. W. Bradley, state bank examiner, an inspector of the banking department at the time of the Enterprise Bank failure, said that he had inspected the Enterprise Bank in 1920 and also in 1921 and that in 1920 he found considerable low grade paper and that it was the bank president's duty to charge off this paper. He also gave it as his opinion that the bank was insolvent at that time.

Fair Grounds to Be Graded; Other Plans Are Made

The directors of the Danville Fair Association held a meeting last night at the Country Club, which was fittingly and agreeably inaugurated by one of those justly famous suppers that are always forthcoming there. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for the Danville Fair next year.

A matter of particular importance was that of grading the present grounds so as to make it more suitable and convenient for use as a fair grounds, but also, if possible to put in such a shape that it may be used for other activities. In this connection the directors authorized, the president, A. D. Starling, to expend $1,500 to grade the grounds.

It was decided at last night's meeting to hold in connection with the Fair a "Fiddlers' Convention." It is planned to broadcast the news of this feature far and wide and secure entries not only from Danville but from the immediate environs, but from surrounding counties in this state and North Carolina. In fact, reach forth into the mountain sections of both states, where fiddlers are born and bred and flourish in a congenial soil, and bring them, all ages and conditions to this city. Such conventions have proved marvelous successes in other localities and have drawn forth much and unsuspected talent.

The directors also agreed that better facilities for entering and leaving the grounds should be provided. This means that the entrance and exits will be enlarged for the 1924 Fair so that the ever increasing army of motorists will be able to handle the traffic.

A special committee was named last night to try to secure better parking facilities near the grounds.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

Danville Will Probably Get Football Games

The joint football committee, composed of representatives from the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs, met yesterday afternoon and decided to work for two games here next fall. Because of the major institutions of Virginia and North Carolina have arranged their schedules it was decided to get two college games Davidson on October 26 and between William and Mary on November 15. The committee is now working to secure if proper guarantees are made.

The committee authorized the chairman, A. F. Patton, to write to these institutions offering a guarantee of $1,000 for each game. It is understood that this amount will be ample to secure the contests.

The two guarantees of $1,000 each has been practically underwritten by the three above mentioned clubs and the Chamber of Commerce, so there will be no hitch on this score.

It was thought best by the committee not to be too ambitious in the matter of securing the first games, since if the contests next fall appeal to the public it will be an easy matter to secure one or more larger games for the following season.

The personnel of the joint committee follows: A. F. Patton, chairman; Wilson Brooks, secretary; Henry Day, O. L. Roach, C. G. Holland, Buck Conway and Hunt Wimbish.

The movement to secure two football games for Danville during the 1924 season has already received the endorsement of the Lions, Rotarians and Kiwanians, as well as the Chamber of Commerce. In addition there

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I cared for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letters to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines."

—Mrs. I. M. COFFMAN, R. B. 2, Sidell, Ill.

has been manifest a wide spread public demand for such games. For this reason it is believed that there will be no question of support. The matter is expected to resolve itself into a question of the provision of sufficient seats at Stonewall Jackson Park to handle the crowd. It is believed that extra bleachers, erected along the right field bleachers will take care of this feature, and without a great deal of extra expense.

School Board Puts Hazard Remedy Up to City Council

Excerpts from a letter received in October from the fire committee calling for the erection of a fire escape from the first floor. The report will further state that the chief of the fire department was called to the scene and that he approved a different plan—the cutting of an additional door, which work was done within two days. The board is recorded as believing that the school board should have been relieved of this useless expenditure and that the last report of the fire commission calls for a different sort of fire escape than the one actually approved. As to the illness building used for overflow pupils from the high school, the school board feels that it is being used only temporarily, that the classes in the upper floor are small and that there is no danger from fire, steam heat having been installed.

The report of the committee bearing on the school which was described recently by the city engineer as a fire trap and which is also complained of less vigorously in the recent report of the fire commission, expresses the belief that it is not a fire hazard. It is extended that there are several avenues of escape and that the inner doors open both ways also that there is no danger of the ceiling over the flues being ignited. The installation of fire escapes is considered as a necessary expenditure of money and that while the building is inadequate for school work, there is no grave risk of fire. The board virtually declares that the recommended improvements cannot be made until funds for general repairs are provided.

The report in dealing with the Rison Park school, takes issue with the usefulness of hand-extinguishers in a building occupied by children. The fire escape on this building has been repainted thus meeting one of the objections cited.

There is passing reference to Robert E. Lee school, the board concurring in the recommendation of the special school committee that the doors be covered with metal. Instructions to the janitor of Stonewall Jackson school are expected to meet the requirements laid down by the fire commission.

In dealing with Westmoreland school the report goes back to the previous report of the fire commission in which the structure was roundly condemned and requiring that the fire escapes be built, or the building abandoned. The report points out the failure of the board to have invented the remedies asked for being afforded but that the fire chief and the city engineer both approved utilization of the building for another year provided the doors were reconditioned, this being the recommendation of the schoolboard.

The schoolboard concurs in the recommendation of its committee that the hanging of the doors in Arlington school be changed to conform with the recommendations made by the fire commission.

The report summed up indicates a desire to conform with several minor requirements laid down by the city fire commission but takes issue with the wisdom of other more expensive changes, this on the score that the schoolboard at the present time has not the money to make all the changes recommended and which, if carried out would cost in the neighborhood of $8,000.

This report will be presented to the next meeting of the council. Just what action will be taken remains to be seen. Appropriation of $8,000 would enable the board to make the changes without delay. According to the report the schoolboard feels that it cannot meet the expenses involved owing to the lack of money. According to the city engineer the abandonment of the upper floor of the Hines building can be ordered by the exercise of authority of the city council, the commission which could also compel other changes were it to deem such action proper.

Coolidge Active In Efforts to Solve Shoals Problem

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge is taking an active part in efforts to solve the Muscle Shoals problem and is described at the White House as working in harmony with Representative Hiram Boren of Illinois.

Whether the president is in agreement with all details of Mr. Madden's legislative plans affecting the project, which are known to contemplate acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for its lease and purchase has not been revealed, but he is understood to have declared to favor the Illinois representative's proposal for construction on the warrior river of a power plant to replace the one recently sold to the Alabama Power company. This is pointed out, would have the effect of restoring the Muscle Shoals under taking to the status it had when Mr. Ford's offer was made.

Mr. Coolidge's interest in Muscle Shoals is said to lie primarily in the assurance of a wartime supply of nitrate and a peace time supply of cheap fertilizer and he feels that it would be to the government's advantage to operate the project at a loss in order to private interests at a sacrifice to bring about such a result.

State Opposes New Trial For Robert Garrett

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 24.—The prosecution in the case of Robert Garrett, Cumberland county clerk under sentence of five years imprisonment in connection with the shooting to death of the Rev. Edward S. Pierce in front of the Episcopal church at Cumberland Courthouse on January 1, last, vigorously opposed today the defense motion for a new trial. When the hearing of the motion was resumed this morning before Judge R. B. White, Richard H. Mann, assisting in the commonwealth's case, opened the argument with a new trial and was to be followed by George R. White, and Richard Evelyn Byrd. The defense, which finished its argument yesterday was expected to complete its rebuttal today and indications were that Judge White would take the motion under advisement and announce his decision later.

Sad Mistake
It was dusk and the ticket inspector went to the young couple on the back seat of the car.
The youth, slightly impatient at the interruption, thrust out his folded tickets.
"We do not stop there," said the inspector, courteously.
"Where?" inquired the youth.
"At the pawnbrokers'—Exchange."

Coolidge Begins Final Polishing Of His Message

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge today began the final polishing of his forthcoming message to Congress, which many observers believe will have an important bearing on his future political fortune. He completed the main part of his work on the document yesterday and all that remains to be done before it is sent to the printer is the clarifying of the language of several sections.

The message is expected to be brief. White House officials have made it known that the president intends to present his recommendations without long argument or discussion but on the basis of what he feels to be their intrinsic soundness.

Little is known of the details of the message but it is generally thought its principal sections will deal with taxation, agricultural relief and transportation. No general building program will be recommended it is said authoritatively, but the executive is expected to suggest that Congress make a start on a program for the better housing of government departments and bureaus in the District of Columbia.

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTIONS CUT DOWN CHINESE INFLUX TO CUBA

(By The Associated Press.)
HAYANA, Nov. 24.—Restrictions imposed upon the entry of Chinese immigrants into Cuba have cut down the influx so that within the last ten months only 1,212 have entered as compared with 1,212 during the previous ten months. The present Cuban law is similar to the United States law and bans laborers, but admits under restrictions merchants, students and tourists.

entity is making its appearance in Europe molded and dominated by France. A new Europe is being shaped at our doors.

"What really matters in the coming election," the Times states, "is the position of the British empire in the world in the rapidly changing world—a world that has broken loose from all accepted standards."

Berlin dispatches to the London newspapers agree that it is impossible to foresee what administration is near, but some of the correspondents stress the growth of militarist nationalism and hint at sensational developments from that source. Dr. Stresemann in his talk with the newspapermen commented bitterly on the German parliamentary system and said the next government would be faced with a serious task in determining its foreign policy. He also referred with considerable feeling to the recent allied note concerning the former Crown Prince, the tone of which, he said, brought a flush of shame to the cheek of every German. It was such notes, he added, that destroyed the German people and created nationalism.

Dr. Stresemann again defended Frederick William, whom he described as a man with a strong sense of political responsibility and great capacity.

The Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail quotes the defeated chancellor as saying: "I was at the theatre the other night and every time the band played a military march the people applauded. You know why? It was in protest against the interference of foreigners in the home affairs of Germany—a protest against the abolition of military service. You cannot remove sentiment based on traditions of more than a century."

NATURE OF NEW GERMAN GOVERNMENT IS MYSTERY

(By The Associated Press.)
BERLIN, Nov. 24.—While awaiting from President Ebert word as to his plans for the government that is to succeed the defeated Stresemann ministry, political leaders this morning were discussing the several possibilities the situation contained.

The nature of the new government remained a mystery overnight and observers were wondering whether the president would try another parliamentary ministry or whether he would decide upon a restricted directors. The Socialists last night let it be known that they would be "benevolently neutral" toward a coalition representing the clericals, the Democrats and the German peoples party but they made it plain that they would not approve the inclusion of non-partisan experts in such a ministry.

In view of the political difficulties experienced by Chancellor Stresemann in dealing with the Reichstag, some party leaders felt dissolution of the national Legislature was the only alternative to a popular constitution. The radical leader, however, was contending that the president should make every effort to recruit a government from parliamentary sources.

HALIFAX COUNTY WOULD USE NEW CITY HOME

The city home commission yesterday afternoon elected Rev. Malcom S. Taylor, rector of Epiphany church, president of the organization, to succeed Rev. J. Callaway Robertson who recently left here. Rev. Mr. Taylor has accepted the appointment and attended yesterday's meeting. Further progress in the development of the city home is necessarily delayed until the council meets next week and authorizes the expenditure of slightly more money than first estimates for the project.

One interesting matter developed at the meeting and that was the presentation of a letter from the board of supervisors of Halifax county asking the commission if it would undertake to house and keep four inmates of the Halifax county farm where the indigent poor have been kept. It developed that Halifax is selling its farm and there is no institution provided for the county's poor. The supervisors are desirous of boarding four people in the Danville institution. The commission felt that while it was appropriate to consider the building and equipment of such an institution a matter of policy in its administration were best left to the public welfare committee of the council and the letter was referred to that body.

It is understood that the per capita cost of maintaining an inmate of the Danville city home will be about $25 per month. When the new city home was first discussed it was hoped that the supervisors of Pittsylvania county would show interest in the scheme and that by consolidating the city home and the county home, the per capita might be cut and the institution operated more economically. Some of the members of the commission are hopeful now that since Halifax county has made a proposition to the Pittsylvania authorities will take similar action. The proposed home will provide accommodation for thirty people and when completed it will have only about half a dozen boarding four people in the Danville institution.

Police Wearing Bullet Proof Shields, and With Tear Bombs Capture Desperado

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Policemen used a steel shield, which turned bullets rained at them, and tear bombs to overcome Roy Hendrickson, of Shawnee Oklahoma when he terrorized guests at the Hotel Sherman, in the heart of the downtown district, shortly after midnight by firing thru his door at officers who intended to take him to the Psychopathic hospital.

The officers tossed the tear gas over the transom and as Hendrickson sought air at a window, burst in his door under cover of shields and took Hendrickson after a severe struggle. It was the first time Chicago police had used the shield and tear bombs.

Hendrickson registered at the hotel officers used their clubs. One from the top of the staircase and Al McCormick, he stated, also seized hold of him. All were finally quelled and removed to the police station.

Little testimony was heard this morning and not all of the warrants were called. It was in evidence for the defense that the officers, who had previously testified that they thought the crying girl was being roughly treated, entered unbidden and that the child in question was crying because her little sister had been sent to Georgia. Not all of the defendants testified and the warrants were dismissed after a brief examination into the facts.

No. 8—The Ambassador Fox Trot

THE FOURTH STEP IN THE AMBASSADOR FOX TROT BEING DEMONSTRATED BY ARTHUR MURRAY, ITS ORIGINATOR AND ALLEN MEEHAN.

BY ARTHUR MURRAY
Director, National Institute of Social Dancing.

The Ambassador fox trot was so named because it is the dance most popular at this fashionable hotel, where New York's best dancers gather at tea time to introduce the latest steps.

See how easily you can learn it. This movement contains a syncopated waltz step done to fox trot music. It is extremely popular with good dancers who appreciate the beauty of doing waltz steps to fox trot music.

1. Begin with left foot and take a long slow step straight forward to the right foot, as in illustration. 2. Draw left foot up to right, weight on left. These three steps complete one forward waltz movement.

4. Step directly backward on the right foot. Repeat the entire step of four counts.

Note that in the illustration the numbers 1 and 4 are dark. This is to indicate that they are slow steps; each step is given a full count. Numbers 2 and 3 are given quick steps.

Lady's Part.

1. Begin with the right foot and take a long slow step backward. 2. Place the left foot backward, diagonally to your left, about 14 inches to the left of your right foot.

3. Draw the right foot up to the left, weight on right. 4. Step straight forward with your left foot, weight on left.

Repeat the entire step of four counts.

Note that the first and four steps are done slowly and each of these steps receives a full count. The second and third steps are done quickly and receive only half as much time.

Combination No. 2.

This movement is one of the most delightful in the fox trot and extremely popular among the better dancers.

Man's part:
1. Begin with the left foot and take a long slow walking step directly forward.

2. Take a long quick step forward on the right foot, placing it about ten inches to the right.

3. Quickly draw the left foot up to the right, heels together. (So far you have taken three steps, the first one is a slow step while the second and third are done quickly.)

4. Take a long step forward on the right foot and hold the weight on this foot for two counts while you extend the left foot in front, lifting it about two inches off the floor. Repeat the entire movement.

Lady's part:
1. Begin with the right foot and take a long slow step directly backward.

2. Quickly step backward on the left foot, placing it ten inches to the left.

3. Draw the right foot up to the left, weight on right.

4. Step straight forward with your left foot, weight on left. Repeat the entire movement.

Mr. Murray tells how to dance the Wildflower Waltz in his concluding article.

Mayor Wooding Names Delegates to Monroe Doctrine Event at Capital

Mayor Harry Wooding this morning announced appointment of delegates to the International Centennial Celebration of the Monroe Doctrine to be held in Richmond, December 2-4, inclusive. The mayor has been invited to attend the celebration and was asked to name delegates to go from this city. The purpose of the celebration is to acquaint the world with Monroe and his doctrine and do honor to him. An elaborate program has been arranged and delegates from all over the country will attend.

Mayor Wooding received a letter this morning from J. Garnett King, chairman of the Mayors Committee, and was asked to pick a delegation from Danville. Inasmuch as it is to be a strictly Monroe celebration, the mayor concluded that a delegation of educators and judicial officials and lawyers would be appropriate. He has named the following: Prof. F. H. Wheatley, Superintendent W. C. Griggs, Prof. S. B. Hall, Prof. C. S. Wheatley, Prof. J. W. Cook and Mrs. A. D. Keen, Mrs. A. J. Gray, Mrs. Lillie Watson, Mrs. O. A. Quinn, Prof. C. G. Evans, Prof. J. P. Craft, Col. M. Kemper, Judge D. P. Withers, W. K. Harris, Walton Brown, John W. Carter, B. H. Custer, A. M. Aiken, Henry Leigh, Julian Meade, Dr. T. L. Snyder.

Defies Arrest In Barricaded Home

Police Reserves were sent to a house on Scales street last night at about 9 o'clock when Fletcher Taylor, city street foreman is alleged to have barricaded himself in his home and to have defied arrest by the police.

Taylor was further alleged, was in an intoxicated condition when Patrolman Ira Harris went to the scene, because there to take the man into custody. Harris declared that he found Taylor in a defiant attitude denying him admittance.

The officer returned to police headquarters after finding he could not get in and he returned to the scene with Sergeant H. T. Haraway and Officers J. T. Clark, W. C. Talley and G. T. Cook and they proceeded to lay siege to the home. Conferees through the window failed to budge Taylor from the position that his home was his castle and the police were decided to enter by force. Some of them went in through a window, breaking it, while others put their shoulders to the door and broke it.

Suddenly, the door yielded and back so quickly that Officer Clark was not quite sure whether the door had hit him or somebody inside. Once within the house Taylor was taken to the courthouse. He was remanded to jail where a passage of words with Jailor Harner Chandler resulted in his being conveyed to the dungeon for the rest of the night.

Taylor was charged with being drunk and disorderly and with resisting arrest, a fine of $10 being imposed by the mayor this morning.

Another Hunger Striker Perishes

Danville Laundry Co., Adds 2 New Trucks

The Danville Laundry Co., Inc., has added two new Dodge trucks to its delivery system, making three trucks that have been put on in the last four months. This makes a total of eight delivery teams, four trucks and four wagons, that this company is now using to furnish its thousands of patrons with the various kinds of service that it gives.

The growth of this company has been remarkable, but not unexpected when the quality of work it does and the superior service its renders are considered. The concern has just completed its first year in its big new plant at 520 Loyal street and the management feels fully compensated for the large amount of money it required to make the modern laundry plant up-to-date in every respect, in fact, one of the best in the country.

Danville to Send Delegates to Older Boys' Conference

Local Sunday school and Y. M. C. A. workers have received the official program of the Virginia Older Boys' conference which is to be held at Petersburg December 7, 8 and 9, under the auspices of the State Young Men's Christian association. Several Danville Sunday schools have already appointed their delegates to this conference and others are expected to appoint theirs tomorrow, (Sunday). The Danville delegation will be headed by the boys' work secretary of the Danville Y. M. C. A., Oscar Hyler.

The program is an attractive one and the Danville boys who are fortunate enough to attend this conference will hear some of the best speakers available in this country. An interesting feature to the conference will be an automobile trip to points of historical interest around Petersburg.

Members of the Danville and Rotary clubs will furnish their cars and conduct the boys on this trip. A good delegation from Danville is already assured.

Scott, boys' work secretary for the Petersburg Y. M. C. A., is in charge of the arrangements for the entertainment of the visiting delegates. He promises a most cordial welcome to all who attend the conference.

World's Next Big Quake to Be In So. or Central America
(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A prediction that the world's next catastrophic earthquake will occur in central South America was made in an address last night by Father Tondorf, the seismologist at Georgetown University, whose observations gave the world its first news of the violent disturbance that several hours later was found to have wrought vast destruction in Japan.

Father Tondorf declined to estimate the probable time of the earthquake he predicted, pointing out the difficulty of such an estimate and declaring that because of the range of years it would have to cover, it would be practically valueless. The Japanese catastrophe, he recalled, was forecast in 1921 by the Imperial seismological bureau which fixed the time, within six years and at the same time predicted a second serious disturbance there between 1927 and 1933.

Lloyd George and Asquith to Speak At Same Time

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The opportunity of hearing Herbert Asquith and David Lloyd George speak from the same platform for the first time since the great liberal split falls to the electors in Dr. Asquith's Paisley district tonight when the two champions of liberalism stand side by side in the interests of the reunited party. The demand for tickets to the meeting has been unprecedented.

Mr. Asquith until yesterday faced the opposition of a laborite in Paisley but a conservative candidate has now appeared. Perhaps there may even be a four-cornered fight, as two labor men have claimed the privilege of trying to oust Mr. Asquith from his seat in the House of Commons. One of these is J. M. Biggar, whom the elder liberal statesman defeated in the last election by only 316 votes in a total poll of 29,694. Colonel Shaw's entry has complicated the liberal campaign and the outcome cannot be foreseen.

It has been confirmed that some sort of pact to avoid a split vote, which would tell in favor of the laborites, is being made between the conservatives and the liberals in a few places.

Virginia Warriors Await Thanksgiving

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 24.—Virginia's grifcon warriors with the exception of those of Washington and Lee, Hampden-Sydney and Randolph-Macon, rested today in preparation for their Thanksgiving Day clashes. The Generals were in Louisville today to meet Centre Colleges Praying Colonels and Hampden-Sydney and Randolph-Macon played here. Washington and Lee by winning over Centre would place itself in a good position for at least a tie for southern conference honors. The Generals will close the season next Thursday with North Carolina at Norfolk.

BIG JAPANESE-U. S. COMBINE MADE

BY RODERICK MATHESON.
(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
TOKIO, Nov. 23.—A big Japanese-American combine has just been effected. The Westinghouse Electric and Mitsubishi and the Takata electrical interests have combined to form the Mitsubishi Electric Company to manufacture and sell electric equipment in Japan.

Through the combination American interests supplant German interests which heretofore have been closely affiliated with the Takata group. The company was incorporated for 15,000,000 yen ($1,500,000), to manufacture electrical goods and steam and electrical turbines. Shops exist at Kobe, Nagasaki and Nagoya and ground has been broken for the construction of a main plant at Nagoya to employ 4,000.

According to the agreement the Japanese corporation will get all the Japanese patent rights of the Westinghouse Electric while the Westinghouse International will become the licensee of the Mitsubishi and Takata patents for the rest of the world.

The Shibaura plant of the General Electric Company was destroyed and its Kawasaki plant was partially so. The deal gives the Westinghouse Company the advantage of an immediate large market. Officials of the Westinghouse Company have been here for a month concluding the negotiations which began two years ago.

D'ORSAY SAYS FRANCE MUST PAY AMERICA

PARIS, Nov. 23.—"We must pay or we must make efforts to pay," stated an unofficial spokesman for Quai D'Orsay today, commenting on the United States war debts.

He pointed out, however, that France is in a totally different position from Great Britain for funding its debt, and also that since Prime Minister Raymond Poincaré reached an agreement with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon London is evidently quite dissatisfied with the transaction.

"It is not a matter of honor or prestige to the country," said my informant. "France never questioned or intends to repudiate its obligations. The funds and credits advanced by the United States were expended in a common war for common ideals and for a common victory by the allied and associated powers."

"Not a cent of the money advanced to France left America—it was all expended in the United States, keeping American factories working overtime producing material toward a common victory."

"The loan was an honorable transaction, for both countries; to keep the French army holding the lines while the American army was in the process of formation."

The Tribune learns that Premier Poincaré stands pat on his policy that payments to America cannot begin until France has collected from Germany the amount already advanced for the reconstruction of the war devastations—more than 26,000,000,000 gold marks.

Conflicting reports from Washington have been going on for some time. D'Orsay in the dark as to the administration's purpose—first Senator Smoot announces the necessity of funding the debt or the French government making an official declaration, and then Secretary of State Hughes states that America has not pressing creditors and nothing need be done now.

STEP TO IMPROVE RUHR SITUATION

(By The Associated Press.)
DUESSELDORF, Nov. 23.—The biggest step towards restoring economic life in the Ruhr since the cessation of passive resistance was made this evening when Herr Vogt of the Deutsche Ruhrbebauungsgesellschaft, acting in behalf of the Ruhr mine owners' association signed the conditions originally stipulated by the Franco-Belgian control commission for commencing reparations coal deliveries.

The signing comes after strenuous negotiations which have been going on intermittently for more than a month, and agreement reached will last until April 15, 1924.

Combination in whose behalf the agreement with the commission was signed, including the Reusch-Good hope group, the Hubert-Dortmund-Union-Fickler-Harper group and the Hugo Stinnes and Fritz Thyssen groups accounts for about eighty per cent. of the coal production in the Ruhr, the remaining twenty per cent. being controlled by the Wolf-Phoenix-Krupp concerns who have already signed separate agreements.

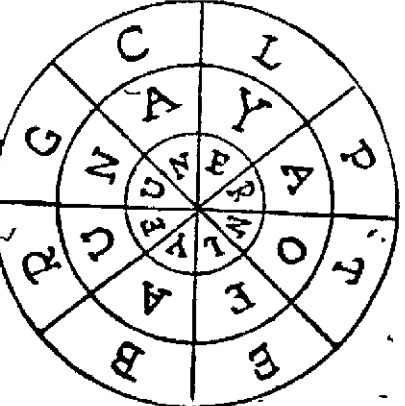

The total of the documents covers forty-seven pages and is highly technical. The phrase "free to the allies as reparations," as used in the agreement in connection with deliveries by mine owners, is taken as indication that the coal deliveries will be charged to the general reparations account instead of to the cost of the occupation of the Ruhr.

The summary of the document does not state whether Germany will be given concessions on this point.

COUNTRY SQUIRE OF U. S. POLITICS

BY GEORGE BRITT
(Special to The Bee)

OREGON, Ill., Nov. 24.—Outstanding country squire among American presidential candidates. Farm management his occupation, cattle breeding his hobby and horseback riding over his own 5,000 acres his favorite exercises.

Such is Frank O. Lowden, former Illinois governor, who is hailed as a real farmer even by his neighbors. His has been the real "back to the soil" movement, for he has returned in both residence and interest to the rustic atmosphere from which he started.

When Lowden bought the first tract of Sinissippi Farm, 25 years ago, he joined the community under the handicap of being a stranger, known as the son-in-law of the Pullman Company magnate and veined from the soil by years of city "law practice." It required time for him to merge with the landscape and to be accepted.

In Oregon they like to recall his staidness to tour the district in his first Congressional campaign in 1904, driven by a coachman behind a pair of stepping bang-tailed horses.

"For heavens sake, colonel, get down to earth or you'll be snowed under," advised a courthouse sage. "Hire a buggy from the livery stable when you go out after votes."

Practical Farmer.

Lowden recognized good advice, and a never-outgrown interest in farming coupled with keen political sense have made him, to the core, a farmer.

"The Lowden farm goes better when the colonel is at home," says an observing neighbor.

"The colonel knows as well as any man in the country whether a field should be put in oats or corn. He used to raise Shorthorn cattle and was an expert at judging them. He's good at Holsteins now. The farm is on a business basis and has to earn its keep."

Around the courthouse the lounge give ready appraisals of the community's first citizen. To them all he is "Colonel," not "Governor" and not "Frank."

"Not a Good Politician," says one.

"He's too conscientious. Take when he was governor. Our county didn't get any roads or big favors. He didn't want it thought he was spending the states money on his home folk."

"Colonel Lowden just won't let anybody dictate to him," says another admirer. "He could have been governor when Deussen was nominated if he had compromised. I heard him say in a campaign speech once, 'I want to be in good company when I'm by myself,' and that is the way he works."

"Well, the colonel is democratic all right," testifies a third. "He doesn't walk around slapping folks on the shoulder, but he knows your name whenever you meet him, is glad to see you and ready to listen to you. The Lowden kids are all right, too, not a bit snobbish."

Those who have watched Lowden's campaigning are ready to dispute his fellow townsmen who say he isn't a good politician. Comes the memory of a hot summer afternoon in a crowded convention hall. The chairman introduces Lowden, a stocky, vigorous clean-cut man who talks clearly, ingenuously, with a world of punch.

His ruffled red necktie and he perspires. Off comes his coat. He notes the suspenders. He loosens his collar. On he talks and his hearers clamor for more.

Ogie county is for "Colonel Lowden." As a neighbor of 25 years has impressed the people here with his sincerity, fairness, generosity and exceptional ability.

The beautiful homestead overlooking the Rock River is his "home," and he is one of the community.

Lowden first demonstrated practically the advantage of dairy farming on the river ravines, and led to the establishing of a large milk condensery here. In local charities and civic enterprises he took a large share. In county politics he attempted no dictatorship.

That is the home town slant on the man who narrowly missed the presidential nomination in 1920, refused the ambassadorship to England this fall and may yet reach the White House.

Lowden was born in 1861 at Sunrise City, Minn., son of the town blacksmith. It was pioneer country then, and his mother used to take him as a baby with her to get the cows for the Indians might steal him. The family moved to Hardin county, Iowa, when the boy was 7. There he grew up teaching school to pass his way through the University of Iowa.

In 1886 he moved to Chicago, worked in a law office while going to law school and finished the course in a single year at the head of his class. Ten years later he was a leader at the bar and married to Florence Pullman. He quit practicing law in 1896. When not in public office, most of his time since then has been spent on the farm.

CUSTOMS BREAK ALL RECORDS IN STATE CAPITAL

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 23.—Customs receipts for the current fiscal year at the local office will again break all records. W. Gay Smith, deputy collector in charge here, announced today. Mr. Smith expects collections to exceed $1,000,000 for the year. Total receipts from imports since the beginning of the fiscal year July 1 are $671,233, according to the deputy collector who said that this figure is in excess of the same period of last year by more than $50,000.

REAL PRINCE, WITH A BLOODY PAST, AND JEWELS, HAS COME ON A VISIT TO THESE SHORES

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Dramatic measures to prevent the quotations of the Cotton Exchange from reaching the street through underground channels were outlined at a meeting today of the business conduct committee which threatened to prohibit sending of quotations by wire unless members could give full assurance that the information would not reach unauthorized hands. Seventy members of the exchange, whose houses have out of town wires, attended the meeting.

Telegraph operators throughout the South were charged with giving out cotton quotations to representatives of bucket shops and with acting frequently as agents of the bucket shops, by Marshall Geer and William M. Schill, members of the committee. Louis Brooks, chairman of the committee, was instructed to confer with representatives of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies in an effort to stop this practice.

The meeting today was a step in the campaign in which the cotton exchange is working with the attorney general and district attorney to drive cotton bucketeers out of New York. President Edward E. Bartlett, Jr., said, "Thousands of traders, officials of the exchange recently asserted, were being swindled out of millions of dollars by bucket shop operators."

"It is a sacred duty of the exchange," said Mr. Bartlett, "insofar as it can, to prevent its quotations from being used by unscrupulous persons posing as cotton brokers who are taking advantage of a rising market to swindle small farmers and traders of their savings through fictitious cotton trades. We can help the authorities by doing everything in our power to see that our quotations do not reach persons or firms who may use them to impose on the confidence of traders. A warning that the exchange might discontinue sending its quotations by wire came from the chairman of the business conduct committee, who asserted that the information in a number of cases actually had been used for illegitimate purposes."

"Though it is to be deplored," he stated, "this committee is forced to recognize that it may be necessary to restrict the privilege to carry quotations over the private wires of that apparently are unable properly to safeguard them."

AUTOMOBILE DEMOLISHED

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 23.—One man was seriously injured, two others were slightly hurt and two escaped injury tonight when a Big Four freight demolished an automobile at the West Main Street grade crossing in this city. The automobile contained five men en route from Champagne, Illinois, to Columbus, to witness the Illinois-Ohio State football game tomorrow.

BIRTH CONTROL WINS VICTORY

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—A victory for the proposed birth control clinic to be established in Chicago as the first of its kind in America won by its advocates today when circuit Judge granted a petition for mandamus to compel city authorities to license for the clinic. The expected to be appealed to appellate court, although Frank M. Padden, assistant corporation counsel declared that "the lawfulness of the matter should really be determined in a criminal prosecution."

"I am loath to subscribe to the proposition that knowledge of birth preventive methods would materially lessen morality," said Judge Fisher. "If true, it will be sad to contemplate the weakness of our moral sense."

The only real question involved, he said, was whether preventive instruction for married people is contrary to public policy. He said a number of legal decisions had held birth control not against public policy because of the absence of legislative enactment against it. He concluded that there were approved preventive methods and that such practices were injurious to health, but Judge Fisher ruled that testimony of physicians was to the contrary.

A THOUGHT

Whoever shall offend one of those little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea.—Mark 9:42.

THE FOOTBALL UNDERTAKING

The prospects of securing two college football games in Danville next season are virtually dependent on giving a guarantee of $1,000 for staging of contests in 1924 between Hampden-Sidney and Davidson and Hampden-Sidney and William and Mary. A local committee composed of representatives of three civic organizations and the Chamber of Commerce has been in correspondence with the managers of these teams and the result of these exchanges indicate that the games may be had. The guarantees required by the colleges are similar to those required in every city where football games are held. The guarantee system is merely a precaution on the part of the colleges against financial loss or in other words attendance insurance. The amount has already been underwritten by the organizations interested in the football undertaking, and in view of the largely increased interest displayed in football in Virginia during the past few years no difficulty should be experienced in securing an attendance large enough to take care of the guarantee. These are minor games on the football schedules but they will suffice in Danville's initial effort to enter the football arena. The securing of these two games should pave the way for a more deliberate effort to win one or more of the larger games in 1925, provided Danville can provide an attractive attendance. This can be accomplished by the proper measure of publicity and by entering the lists well in advance of the drawing up of schedules.

THE EARLY SHOPPING HABIT

It is perhaps a little too early to adopt resolutions governing personal conduct for 1924, but it is most timely to resolve to do your Christmas shopping early and to do it in Danville. There is no better time to get into the habit of buying at home than during the Christmas shopping season for in no other season of the year are the stores more attractive, so well and completely stocked with new merchandise and so humanly interesting. This time of the year the men folks do not wait outside while the wife is made doing the buying. It has never been proved that the mail order houses and out-of-town stores have more merchandise and lower prices to offer than the home-town stores, and there is reason to believe that now as the Christmas shopping period begins the home-town stores are equipped with everything desirable and obtainable for '24.

There is one privilege and convenience offered to the public by the early Christmas shopping which has been overlooked. With the early Christmas shopping buyers are afforded the opportunity of supplying their wants from the home-town stores, a privilege which they would not have if they waited until the mail-order houses began to arrive. The public is now buying at home for Christmas, and the mail-order houses and out-of-town stores are only the emergency buyers at home this Christmas and avoid the worry of delayed shipments and the disappointment which comes from paying for things unseen. The member also that Christmas Eve is just one month away.

THE PRICE OF SUGAR

Word comes from Washington that the government's suit to close the New York sugar exchange is to be heard before the Supreme court in the near future. Persons with long memories will recall that such a suit was instituted by Mr. Daugherty earlier in the year.

The inflation of sugar prices was an acute condition which might have been punctured summarily by prompt vigorous executive action, by immediate lowering of the tariff rate on sugar. This tariff is generally recognized as the root of the speculative evil. It has been established that when sugar tariffs exceed a certain mark a condition which induces speculation arises at once.

Investigation and prosecution of speculative activities were and are treating effects rather than causes. It must have been known that by passing the buck to the government's legal department the matter could only come to an issue after the emergency had disappeared, when the public that pays for price inflations had lapsed back into apathy. Financial commentators prophesy that the present suit against the exchange will peter out and achieve nothing, one describing it as "a hopeless cause, that is not even good politics."

Certainly it is inopportune at this moment. The sugar consumer asked for courage and aggressive action. He got a law suit, which will be settled after he has paid every nickel of the cost of the 1923 inflation in sugar.

YOUR OWN BOSS

The Armour meat packing company has told its 60,000 employees they can become silent partners in the business by buying preferred stock. This stock will be sold to employees on the installment plan. It will pay guaranteed dividends of 7 per cent. Only a few years since the Armour firm was practically "a closed corporation." That is to say, the Armour family owned most of it and controlled all of it.

There is really nothing unusual about the Armour method of letting employees buy an interest in the business. Many businesses already have the same system in operation. It is the ideal way to save. The method usually is for the employee to subscribe to pay so much a week, then that amount is regularly taken from his pay envelope. The employee with stock in the business is more loyal and works harder. That is the theory, at any rate, and it averages true. So it is a definite part of the "efficiency" movement.

You never can tell where such a thing, once started, will lead. Take a business employing 100,000 men. If each of them invested $1000, there is a fund of 100 million dollars. Will the day come when employees, by their savings, will buy a controlling interest, then gradually take over the businesses that employ them? An interesting prospect, decidedly a possibility.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

FLOOR COVERINGS

Anything you may do to stop up cracks and crevices in the floor of your house will cause a decided gain in health. Air in our rooms we must have, but not through cracks in the floor. More disease germs are disseminated by this means alone than in any other way.

Much dirt and dust is carried on our shoes into homes. It finds lodgment on the carpets and other floor coverings, and sits down into the cracks. Sweeping and dusting does little to get rid of it, and the older it gets the worse it becomes. Do away with carpets in every possible case.

The Japanese have no carpets and very few bedclothes. Their homes are models of cleanliness. Few or no diseases result from house dirt there.

Wooden floors can be made perfectly sanitary by oil and paint, combined with a good cleaning compound and plenty of water.

Healthful floor coverings may be supplied in a number of ways. In many rooms, a smooth-painted or finished floor with few rugs furnishes the necessary protection. An inlaid floor of wood pattern, doing away with all unhealthy and unsightly floor cracks, costs a little more but it is more than gained in your annual health condition.

The necessity for pure, vitalizing air in homes, especially during the colder months, is a health factor of almost incalculable value. This is furnished by dusty carpets and germ-laden floor cracks.

Only a much safer asset if dusty carpets and unhealthy floors are made sanitary by removal.

POOR WATER PRESSURE

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Inadequate water pressure tonight was blamed for total destruction of the three upper floors of the twelve-story building at 110 Broadway, Brooklyn, which was razed by flames which broke out in a sun parlor on the twelfth floor. Six persons were injured, six of the firemen who bravely fought the blaze from a narrow ledge surrounding the roof of the hotel.

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, Nov. 24.—(Grapevine) (Featureless). — Saturday night meditations.

Each of us may have his own pet bunch of shortcomings; but there's one, at least, we share in common. We are all a little bit "Scoop's Colyum."

Now, knocking is hard on him who gets it. His feelings are hurt sometimes. It costs him the price of a good name.

Also, it hinders him who indulges therein a nice hard rap. For it is nothing else in the world, this hammering instinct, than the wish to appear better or smarter or richer than the man we go after.

We compare our strength to his weakness, and then immediately our heads begin to expand. Of course, we usually admit, under pressure, that he has his good points, but at last we touch lightly on these. "We do not stress his assets."

Few of us stop long enough to really take the other fellow's measure accurately. That wouldn't suit our book at all. For if we did, it's hardly possible that our own standing would not be quite so high. We never pick the same flaw in another that we are conscious of in our selves. The weakness we retail is one of which we are not guilty. Poor business! There's only one tape-measure that's worth a whoop, and that's the one that measures our growth against our past record. For that's something real!

Are we going forward? Has this day been better lived than yesterday? Are we fighting harder, or at least as hard, to achieve that cherished desire as we did last week? If we are, there's something to crow about, for we are at least holding the line. If we are not, we are losing. For one never stands still. You are either more or less of a personality than you were. So in reality it is an admission of littleness for you to go around picking out some weak brother and measuring yourself against him.

Creating a Surplus.

An automobile owner installed a carburetor that was guaranteed to save twenty per cent. on fuel. Then he put in special plugs that were guaranteed to save twenty per cent. Then he added an intake superheater that was guaranteed to save twenty per cent. He now owned a special rear axle that was also guaranteed to save twenty per cent. He put on high-pressure "cords" that promised a twenty-per cent saving. And now with a fuel economy of 120 per cent. he had to stop every hundred miles and bail fuel out of his gas-tank to keep it from running over!

THE REFEREE

LIFE

The monkey gland treatment for old men is discussed at the Royal College of Physicians in England. The leading speaker, Professor E. H. Starling, says the only way to lengthen life materially is to engender by breeding from long-lived individuals.

Every family has what might be called its "estimated death age," also its "corresponding period of the last 10 years." The average person is destined to live a term of years, and the kind of life to live in generally determined by his father and mother and ancestors who came before.

HOSS

An intelligent horse in Illinois watched his farmer-owner, John Fry, pump water from the well in the early morning. Fry hears the pump going. He looks out the kitchen door, sees the horse pumping the pump full of water for himself and the rest of the livestock.

This horse demonstrates that he has the ability to observe, discover and imitate. And that's about all there is to intelligence.

CARS

Railroads in the last 19 months put into service more new freight cars and locomotives than in any corresponding period of the last 10 years. The exact figures are 155,872 freight cars and 33,1 locomotives.

This is less than the steel industry hoped for, because railroad buying for several years had been very low. But it's a lot of new equipment and it'll help prevent shortage.

SAVED.

If all the money in savings departments of American banks and trust companies was divided equally, there'd be only $185 for every man, woman and child.

Doesn't seem much? It's double the figure of 10 years ago. Means we're more thrifty, more prosperous? Hardly. Rather, it reflects the shrunken buying power of the dollar. You have to use $32 now to buy what cost only $1 in 1913.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hubert Stane, discharged convict, saves the life of Helen Yardey, a girl who travels toward a dangerous waterfall. Gerald Ainley, one-time friend of Stane, is in love with Helen, who is the niece of a governor of the Hudson Bay Company. The governor and Helen are visiting at a northern post of the company. Stane and Helen start to walk the trail to the governor's camp while Ainley searches for Helen. Gerald meets a half-breed who tells him that he has seen Helen and Stane. He accuses Ainley of shooting at Helen as her canoe passes along the river.

NEW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Seating himself upon a fallen tree he scribbled a hasty note to Sir James Yardey, telling him that he had news of Helen and that he hoped very shortly to return to camp with her, and having addressed it gave it to the half-breed.

"There is no need for haste," he said. "I will reward you now, and the great man whose niece the girl is, will reward you further when you take the news of her that is in the letter. But you will remember not to talk to anybody about this, or what you saw nothing about what you saw up the river a few days back. Sir James is a suspicious man and he might think that you fired those shots yourself—in which case—" He shrugged his shoulders then taking out a ten-dollar note, handed it to the half-breed, whose eyes gleamed as he took it. "Now," he continued, "shoulder your canoe and come along to the river. I should like to see you start. I'll carry your gun, and that sack of yours."

He took the half-breed's gun, picked up his canoe, and in single file they marched through the wood back to where the Indian sat patiently waiting. On their appearance he looked round, and as his eyes fell on the half-breed's face a momentary flash came into them, and then as it passed he continued to look at the new-comer curiously.

Ainley rapidly explained the situation and the Indian listened without comment. He waited until the half-breed was actually afoot and out of earshot, and then he spoke.

"Bad man," he said. "No good. Heem liar. I have seen him before." "Maybe," answered Ainley lightly. "So much the better—for one thing! But there's no reason why he should lie about this matter, and I think he was telling the truth about that meeting up the other river. We will follow the trail anyway, and we will start at once. Will the portage of the river be the better way?" "Portage," said the Indian, following the half-breed with his eyes. "Then we had better get going. We've no time to lose, and you needn't worry yourself about that fellow He'll do what I've asked him, for the sake of himself. He can have no reason for doing otherwise."

But in that, as in his statement that the half-breed could have no reason for lying, Ainley was mistaken. The stolen canoe was a very ample reason, and so little inclined was Sir James Yardey to see the presence of the half-breed, that when he reached a creek three miles or so up the river, he deliberately turned aside, and at his first camp he used Ainley's note to light his pipe, tossing what was left of it into the fire without the least compunction. Then as he smoked, a look of malice came on his face.

A fox can scent a man a quarter of a mile away, but you must get very close to a pole-cat.

You can always spot a man who drinks coffee out of a saucer, because he spots himself.

The nice thing about two autos crashing is you often find whisky in one for the injured.

The hubby of Princess Mary is a collector of old glass. So are the autoists in this country.

Dictionary is what you use when you can't think of what to use in place of a word you can't spell.

Lots of lips just made to kiss are made over just afterward.

If at first you don't succeed, take her a box of candy.

A college professor is a man who speaks volumes.

Oldest town in the world is Damascus. Now guess where you bought some of our street cars.

Things can be too good to be true. Books can be too true to be good.

Everybody is digging up prehistoric stuff everywhere. All we have to offer is a few street cars.

Los Angeles is where people go to find something to do until they can get into the movies.

Reformers say the modern dance looks more like a race. We say it usually ends neck and neck.

The proof of the pudding is in digestion.

One Chicago man, probably a coal dealer or landlord or bootlegger, paid $400,000 income tax.

The man who plays the horses may find he is the victim of horseplay.

It would be awful if there was nothing for reformers to kick about.

Near Copenhagen a block of granite weighing more than 100 tons was lifted from the ocean bed and moved to a place miles distant.

pipe, charged it for him, and procured him a light, and with a murmur of thanks, Stane began to smoke.

"I thought I was done for," he said as he looked towards the tangled trunks. "I slipped and plunged right into a sort of crevasse, didn't I?"

"Yes," answered Helen quietly. "It was a little better than I could find you. There was a kind of den made by crossed trunks, and you had slipped between them into it."

"How did you manage to get me out?" he asked, his eyes on the amazing jumble of trunks and branches.

"Well," was the reply, given with a little laugh. "As I told you this morning, I am fairly strong. But it was a hard task for that. I had to not only carry a number of interlocking branches and hoist you out of the crevasse with the pack ropes, then slide you down the dead fall as best I could. When I got you to the ground, I went through your pack and found the brandy which I saw you place there this morning. The rest you know."

Stane looked at her with eyes that glowed with admiration. You make it a little thing, he said gratefully. "I know what it means. You have saved my life, Miss Yardey."

The girl flushed crimson, and then laughed a little to hide her embarrassment. "Oh, as to that—we are quits, Mr. Stane."

He looked at her and noticed for the first time that her blouse was badly torn. Half of one sleeve was ripped away and there was a long tear through which she caught the gleam of a white shoulder. Her skirt he saw was in no better case. She caught his glance and laughed.

"I'm a perfect Cinderella! It will take me hours to sew up these rents."

"Do you think it is worth while?" he asked with a faint smile. "I'm not much of a tailor myself, and I should look at that job as wasted effort."

"But what else can I do?" she demanded. "I can't get in a taxi and run down to Bond Street on a shopping expedition."

"No," he answered slowly. "but you might look in the pack you carried today. There's a habit there that is better suited to the woods than the one you have."

Divining that his advice would be accepted, he turned to a fresh subject. "What are you going to do now? You ought not to have given me the tent."

She waved a hand airily. "Outside. There isn't much room here. Like R. L. S. sleeping out with his donkey I shall discover a new pleasure for myself."

"I am afraid you will find it an exaggerated pleasure, Miss Yardey. It will be strictly for one night only," she said. "Tomorrow I shall build a shack of boughs and bark like one I watched an Indian building down on the Peace river."

The girl went outside, and after sitting for quite a long time looking in the fire, retired to the couch of spruce which she had prepared for herself, and almost instantly fell asleep.

Four hours afterwards she awakened suddenly and looked around her. A rosy glow through the trees proclaimed the dawn. The forest was wonderfully still, and there seemed no reason whatever for the sudden awakening. Then a stream of meaningless babble came through the canvas wall of the tent. She sat up instantly and listened. Plainly the patient was delirious, and the sound of his delirious babble must have been the cause of her sleep. Three minutes later she was inside the tent, her brow puckered with anxiety.

Stane lay there with flushed face, wide-open eyes that glittered with a feverish light. For the moment he was quiet, but whilst she still stood wondering what she should do, the delirium broke out again, a mere babble of words without meaning. Some English words, some Indian, she found only two that for her had any significance. One was Gerald Ainley's name, and the other the name of the beautiful Indian girl whom she had seen talking with the sick man down at Fort Mainau-Miskodee.

breaches leg right up to the seam, then with the aid of moss and a blanket, together with the rough splints she had broken out, she made a shift to set the broken leg.

At last she gave a sob of relief and stood up to survey her handiwork. The splints and the binding looked terribly rough, but she was confident that the fractured ends of bone were in position, and in any case she had done her best.

After that she busied herself with building a fire, and after heating water, washed the wound on Stane's forehead, and carefully examined him for other injuries.

Cutting a quantity of young spruce-boughs she fashioned them into a bed close beside where he lay, and filled all the interstices with spruce moss laying over all a blanket. Then done, she turned once more to Stane to find him with eyes wide open, watching her.

The ordeal of getting Stane to bed was certainly a painful one, but by no means so difficult as the girl had anticipated. Making a sling out of the pack ropes Helen held the injured leg clear of the ground whilst Stane, using his arms and his other leg, managed to lift himself backward on to his improvised couch.

Stane was in don't up to eat much, but he swallowed a fair quantity of coffee whilst the girl tended herself to rest, having already realized that the welfare of both was for the time being dependent upon her and upon her strength. When the meal was ended she found his

Football Program Is At Its Climax This Afternoon

Football Classics in East Arouse Interest

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The last big Saturday of the 1923 football season is here. Featuring its somewhat limited program are the two gridiron classics of the year and the annual meeting of Harvard and Yale at Cambridge and the annual meeting of the Army and Navy at the Polo Grounds and interest centering in those contests exceeds that of any two games of the entire season.

SLEMP TO SEE ARMY AND NAVY BATTLE TODAY

By GEORGE H. MANNING
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23.—Secretary C. Pascom Slomp will have as his guests in his box at the annual football game between the Army and Navy, Mr. C. D. Hillis, Republican national committeeman for New York and Mrs. Hillis, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Davis of Cincinnati and Miss Slomp.

When President Coolidge decided he would remain in Washington and work on his annual message to Congress, he delegated Mr. Slomp to go in his place and turned over to him two boxes that had been reserved for the party of the Chief Executive.

Mr. Slomp gave the tickets to one of the boxes to Senator James Wadsworth of New York who at once turned it over for use of disabled war veterans. Mr. Slomp will occupy the other himself, with friends, as the representative of President Coolidge.

Mr. Hillis was formerly chairman of the Republican National Committee and has been one of Mr. Slomp's closest friends for several years.

IZZY'S BUSY WAY DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI

IZZY'S SALVAGE SNOOPING AROUND. ON THE LEFT YOU SEE HIM HUNTING THAT TRAP DOOR UP ON THE ROOF. AND IN THE CENTER—OH, BOY! CERTAINLY NO FURTHER EXPLANATION'S NECESSARY BUT IZZY WON'T GIVE UP. ON THE RIGHT, THE ELUSIVE EINSTEIN IS GIVING A SUSPICIOUS LOOKING BARREL A GOOD ONCE-OVER.

NLW ORLEANS, Nov. 24.—Gold is where you find it.

Any old-time miner will tell you that.

And the same is true with booze, according to Izzy Einstein, federal prohibition sleuth de luxe.

"I go out and find it," says Izzy. "That's how I got it."

And his moon-like face creases in an expansive grin showing every gold tooth in his broad mouth.

Izzy, whose fame nearly rivals his illustrious namesake who expounded the theory of relativity, chuckles so hard all his 200 and some odd pounds quivers as he begins to tell how he "drying up New Orleans, wettest of all American cities, by Christmas."

Pete Hunts Fights

The story starts with Izzy drifting quietly down from New York and registering at an exclusive hotel with "Buddy" Pete Reagan, his pugilistic protégé.

Now, Pete really is somewhat of a boxer, at least, he used to be, before he went to fighting booze with Izzy Einstein.

They were looking for a match. They got training quarters at a private gymnasium, conducted by a former city detective.

And that was only the opening gun in their bombardment of the 2500-odd liquor-dispensing emporiums in New Orleans.

After that, Izzy was everywhere.

Poolish Dares

"This song about bananas makes me catch," said the Poolish Old Gentleman. "In my day we had songs like 'Ta Ra Ra Boom De Ay' and 'Daddy Wouldn't Buy Me a Bow-Tie' that had some sense to 'em."

—New York World.

His widely heralded disguises changed with startling rapidity.

First day Izzy was in greasy overalls on the river-front wharves unloading bananas. He bought "moon" for ten cents a shot in water-front saloons.

That night in "soup and fish"—monocle included—he entered an exclusive club and bought whiskey at a dollar a drink. And Izzy swears it wasn't a bit better than the kind he bought for a dime a throw down on the river.

Next day, in flashy checkered suit, he was the hot sport up and down the Tongo Belt. He entertained fellow sports, bought drinks lavishly and made all sorts of friends.

But the Tongo Belt is a mourning today. And Izzy's to blame.

Then, all bedecked in costly looking clothes and massive jewelry, and posing as a retired brewer, he mingled with kindred spirits at an exclusive luncheon club. He cursed prohibition up and down and sat in for a couple games of pinocle.

Bucktown Mourns, Too

Of course he wanted their addresses. And down in his little notebook they went.

That night, all dolled up in faultless tuxedo, with a young woman of more than average beauty leaning on his arm, he rolled out to the West. End. There by the shores of Lake Ponchartrain glared the lights of Bucktown, with its suburban cafes and the lights of said cafes are dimmed. Again, Izzy's to blame.

At three prominent restaurants he applied for a job as a waiter. He was from New York, he said. Cleared out because that "damn Izzy Einstein's shuttin' things up too tight for good sports there."

He did not land the jobs. But two or three proprietors invited him to return later.

He took them at their word. The proprietors and waiters wish he had not.

"It's the funniest game in the world," muses Izzy.

High Power Gin

He even laughs about the time the butler told him that the New York governor when he called for gin. The barkeep had met him before.

For amusement, Izzy plays the slide-trombone. That got him a job in Brooklyn once when no other government agent could get past the door. In the raid that followed, a truckload of liquor was the prize.

He admits he has worked at every job from bank-clerk to peddler of collar-clothes in getting evidence.

"New Orleans is the wettest spot I've struck," he asserts. "But I'm gonna make it dry by the time Santa Claus comes."

And the 2500-odd bootleggers are beginning to think he is darned near right.

Interest of Western Fans at High Pitch

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The western conference football season will end today with interest at a high pitch of enthusiasm. Three undefeated teams will battle for championship honors. For one of them—Minnesota to win two upsets will be required a victory over Michigan by team and a victory by the thrice defeated Ohio team over the University of Illinois, winner of four consecutive conference games.

To the west, the Syracuse-Nebraska game at Lincoln will furnish the gridiron "contest intersectional spectacle." Syracuse is regarded as one of the strongest eastern eleven and the Corn Huskers are potential champions of the Missouri valley conference. In the second division of conference teams, the Chicago-Wisconsin game at Chicago attracts most interest. Purdue is regarded as having the edge over Indiana in the fight for the Indiana championship at Bloomington, while Iowa is a top-heavy favorite to beat Northwestern at Evans-

This Little World

By MASON DIXON
NEA Service Writer
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24.—New Orleans is the home of the first jazz strike of history. The ancient city's Tango Belt opened the autumn season with many new cabarets and with o' heds demand for jazz. Jazz players, jazz singers, jazz dancers were worked to a fare-you-well, night after night, until they struck last week. Struck for higher pay and a three-platoon shift system. They won. Now the Tango Belt renounces to the slinking blues of the old-time jazz. And the jazz-babes are happy.

Achmed Saik, Turk, came to America three months ago. He took residence in New Orleans on Manuel street, a little street on the outskirts.

He found that Achmed had erected down the street signs that proclaimed it Manuel street, and had ordered at his own expense signs which proclaimed the thoroughfare Saik street.

The city commission gently but firmly told Achmed that a man's fellow citizens had to determine how famous he was. Now his Manuel street again, and Achmed Saik moans.

Robert Hayne Tarrant, New Orleans impresario, has a penchant for loud cravats. Rosa Ponselle, the singer, cured him. Rosa was in New Orleans this week. Tarrant met her at the train. In his arms was a mass of Royal Italian cravat dahlias. In his lapel another. His flaring bow club-ue was royal Italian cravat. Ponselle should feel touched, he thought, "for the love of donna," said the dramatic soprano prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, as she lapped the Tarrant cravat. "Where did you get that necktie? Are you wearing it on a bet? Run along and get me one before you call or me again. The cubist sunset make you look like a tenor."

In the local newspapers lately has been much agitation about renaming some New Orleans streets for famous figures in her two centuries of history. Somebody explained it to Achmed. He approved. Then a dragage company pumped out of City Commissioner Paul Maloney that something was wrong out on Manuel street.

Representative Longworth, candidate for Republican House leader, asks for harmony among Republicans of the alternative of Democratic control.

A rally of opponents to prohibition will be held in Washington in January.

President Coolidge believes it wiser that Muscle Shoals shall be run by the government at a sacrifice to assure the U. S. a wartime supply of nitrate and in peace time cheap fertilizer.

Former Governor Walton, of Oklahoma, asks immediate trial after indictment on charges for which he was removed from office.

Senator Lodge declares he favors tax reduction but it is too early to discuss details.

Serge Lassinin, poet husband of Isadora Duncan, announces at Moscow that he has separated from the dancer.

The last prep football game of the 1923 season will be played on the D. M. I. grounds this afternoon when the Cadets face the eleven from Randolph-Jackson Academy, Bedford City. The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

The dope points to a close and hard fought contest. Both teams are getting off to a bad start in the opening games, one thing or another contrived to bring disaster to the hopes of the D. M. I. boys. However, there was never a very big plugging away and the result is that a strong team has been developed.

Much of the credit for the development shown is due to the members of the team of the second team demonstrated some weeks ago that they could furnish the nucleus for a strong eleven. In scrimmages, time and again, this proved that they could beat the first team.

As a result seven members of the scrub team have been promoted to first string men and all of these seven men will start the game today. Among the number are two very efficient back-field men, Wilkerson and Gravelley. The former is feet-footed, aggressive and a splendid line plunger. Gravelley is an accomplished galner through the line.

Only two games remain to be played this season, one with Newberry Saturday and the final game, with Davidson in Charlotte, Thursday.

Davidson is a very important game in the Davidson game, and it is a preparation for this that Coach Alexander is directing his efforts. He is not, however, prone to overstate the strength of this team, holding Furman to a good score.

Three changes will appear in the line-up for the Newberry game Saturday. Aldridge will play right tackle which position he occupied for the first time in the Wake Forest game. His playing attracted the attention of the coaches. Wilkerson and Gravelley will be stationed at the two guard positions. Both of these men are under the 165 pound weight, but are fast and alert. Burns has been playing end-halfback this fall, while Simmons has played several positions in the line.

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 23.—Will the Trinity College Blue Devils stage comeback and end the present season with flying colors has been anticipated by a few of the Trinity followers. That is the question being asked now. No one doubts the potential strength of the Methodist squad for it contains an abundance of excellent material. But the Blue Devils came up to their expectations in only one game this fall, the Carolina game. Since then the squad has been repeatedly disrupted, and the play-off team has been decidedly of color.

Since then the squad has been repeatedly disrupted, and the play-off team has been decidedly of color.

Only two games remain to be played this season, one with Newberry Saturday and the final game, with Davidson in Charlotte, Thursday.

Davidson is a very important game in the Davidson game, and it is a preparation for this that Coach Alexander is directing his efforts. He is not, however, prone to overstate the strength of this team, holding Furman to a good score.

Yale Goes in to Avenge 4 Straight Losses to Harvard

(By The Associated Press.)
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 24.—An undefeated Yale eleven, confident of its ability to avenge four consecutive defeats at the hands of John Harvard, prepared today to take the field at the Harvard Stadium, a battle ground on which no Blue team has been able to push across a touchdown since 1907. Although the historic Yale-Harvard series, which saw its first game in 1875 shows 23 victories for Yale against 13 for Harvard and five tie scores, the Crimson won eight of the last nine starts and today seeks to establish a new record of five straight wins over Eli.

The team wearing Harvard's colors for the forty-second game between the two universities will face the final and objective battle of their 1923 season with a record of performance far from impressive.

A tie score with little Middlebury and defeats by Dartmouth and Brown were blots on the Crimson's escutcheon that nothing but defeat of the traditional enemy today could efface.

While Yale ruled a strong favorite, Harvard players and supporters expressed the confident belief that the team had "found itself" however, beately and that "Yale could be beaten."

In modern football history, Crimson adherents maintained, the fierce bulldog of Yale, on many occasions has fallen victim to Harvard's psychology. But following of Eli's fortunes declare it will take much psychology to tame the Bulldog team invading Cambridge today. Yale's record of offensive for the season is 217 points scored by the Blue, against 32 scored by opponents. Against this Harvard has run up 13 points, against 4 scored by opponents.

Both squads were reported at the top of their form for their final battle. For Yale, Coach Tad Jones announced that all members of the famous "two half" squad wearing the Blue were fit and ready with the exception of Hulman, injured in the Princeton game. Jenkins and McGone, Harvard backfield, but hurt at Princeton two weeks ago, will figure in today's contest, the former alternating with Hammond at right half, the latter with Lee at quarterback. Grew, Harvard substitute guard also is off the injured list and ready.

A playing field rendered soft and slippery by heavy rain throughout the night promised to hamper both teams but Yale, richer in replacement strength, may feel the handicap less than the defending forces. More than 55,000 spectators, representing all available stands in the stadium and standing room for several thousand expected to view the game, while many thousands of applicants for tickets were disappointed.

Shoots at Flock of Decoy Ducks; Misses Live Bird

By BILLY EVANS
Next to baseball, Eddie Collins of White Sox, recently mentioned as the probable manager of the Washington Nationals, likes shooting. Collins is not so strong for the big game stuff, and prefers bird shooting.

Just as present Collins is in the wilds of Maine with Bob Shawkey and several other players who lean to shooting as a winter sport. It may just have happened, but it is a bit of coincidence that the day the wires carried the report that Collins might manage Washington next year, he departed on a hunting trip. As a result no one has been able to get the views of Collins on the subject.

Chief Bender, one of the greatest pitchers of all time, who finished the 1923 season with Baltimore in the International League, is one of the best shots in the country. Chief prides himself on his ability to bring 'em down when he pulls the trigger. They do say that Chief's aim with the gun is even better than his control as a pitcher. That is saying something, for Chief sure could get them over.

Collins and Bender have been partners on many a hunting trip. Eddie tells this story at the expense of the Chief, and Bender, who is rather touchy on the question, insists that Eddie is just kidding.

On one of their hunting expeditions, so the story goes, Chief spied a flock of ducks. At the opportune moment he blazed away. To his great delight only one duck took to flight. The Chief was positive that he had made a killing and started to brag about it. He even expressed regret that even one of the ducks had gotten away.

Collins was almost as enthused as Bender since he was not in on the joke. The pair hastened to the spot expecting to bag enough ducks to last out the year. Upon reaching the flock, it is easy to imagine Bender's disgust when he discovered that he had fired into a bunch of decoys and the only real live duck in the flock had gotten away.

Collins got a big laugh out of the situation while Bender profaned. Eddie insists that the Chief had ever used such language on an American League umpire as he did on the ducks. President Johnson would have suspended him for life.

It so happened that a friend of Bender's, who knew how touchy Bender was on his shooting ability purposely planted the decoys to put one over on the Chief.

It worked out great.

SCARLET FEVER NOW AT AVERETT

Prof. J. P. Craft, president of Averett College, announced last night that one case of scarlet fever had developed at that institution. The youngest member of the student body is the victim. She has been isolated in the contagious ward, which is carefully separated from the other rooms of the main building by double doors. Every precaution is being taken to localize the disease, and it is believed that no other cases will develop. The young lady who is ill is not thought to have a serious case.

Service Elevens of Uncle Sam Clash at Polo Grounds Today

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The team with the best straight away at tack will win today's Army-Navy game.

Such was the prophecy of football experts today after testing the turf of the Polo Grounds where Uncle Sam service elevens are about to engage in their annual gridiron struggle.

The heavy rains of yesterday and last evening had transformed the field into quagmire and such soggy footing is expected to seriously handicap the broken field specialists of the two elevens and restrict their play largely to line plunging and close slants off tackle.

However, Army and Navy teams of often have encountered just such conditions in their historic series and this year, as in the past, they have come equipped with plays which can be effectively worked on muddy fields.

The Cadet eleven continue to rule a slight favorite today despite the assertion of Captain McEwan, the Army head coach, that he was far from sure of victory.

"Football followers seem to have missed the full significance of the Navy's victory over Colgate," he said before the game. "That Colgate team is one of the most powerful in the country as it proved last week whipping Syracuse and yet the Navy proved Colgate's master in all departments of play. Today's game is a fifty fifty proposition. We hope to win but are far from sure of victory."

More than 60,000 persons forming the largest throng ever to witness a meeting of Army and Navy elevens, will pack the Giants ballpark for the game and the majority of the number is that expected to arrive well in advance of the starting time in order to view the spectacular maneuvers of the West Point regiment and the Annapolis brigade on the playing field before the game.

Coach McEwan had not definitely decided upon players who were to start the contest in three of the eleven positions. Captain Mulligan, Henny and Mack, were possibilities at right tackle. Smythe and Youmans at quarterback and Ives and Hewitt at left halfback.

Coach Folwell, of the Navy, declined to make a pre-game statement other than to announce the eleven men who would start the game.

The lineups:

Army	Pos	Navy
Baxter	L. E.	Taylor
Goodman	L. T.	Clyde
Ellinger	L. G.	Carneg
Garbison	C.	Mathews
Farwick	R. G.	Levinisky

RIG TEN STUDES ACTIVE IN WORK OF ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Intercollegiate Conference, contradicts flatly the often repeated statement that competitive athletics injure general physical education. His position is based on a survey just completed of the 10 middle western universities composing the conference.

"The number of men in physical activities has increased from 25 per cent to 53 per cent in the last 25 years," announces Major Griffith.

"Athletic directors of the conference reported to me a total of 11,296 men enrolled in the year 1897-98, and 2884 in physical activities. Team spirit and interest in inter-collegiate contests have been growing steadily since then. Yet last year, with a total enrollment of 48,091, there were 28,622 engaged in physical activities."

The conclusion obvious Team athletics do not stifle personal athletic development among the rank and file of students.
